Canon Hinchliffe's Resignation.

A meeting of the congregation of St. Luke's church was held on Sunday evening last to take into consideration the resignation of Rev. Canon Hinchliffe, who has been rector of the church for the past eight years.

There was a fairly representative gathering and all seemed to feel a shadow of gloom at the idea of severing their connection with one who has done so much for the church during his ministry in Red Deer. A letter was read from the Ladies' Guild in which the members expressed confidence in Mr. Hinchliffe and asking him if possible to reconsider his resignation. Mr. Hinchliffe said he wished to resign, he felt it would be best for all. He was not very well, he had for eight years done his best for the congregation and he felt that perhaps a new man would do better work than he could at the present time. He stated that the Bishop had suggested a substitute be secured for a year, but he had not entertained the proposition. J. A. Carswell stated that the vestry did not wish to assume the responsibility of accepting the rector's resignation, as they were opposed to his leaving, and explained that this meeting was called to consider the matter. J. L. Crawford asked Mr. Hinchliffe if he really desired to leave and the rev. gentleman said he did not. Mr. Crawford then asked him if he desired his resignation accepted, and he said he did. He explained that while he did not wish to give up the parish he felt it his duty to do so, not only for himself but for the congregation. For himself because his health was such that he could not do justice to the position and he needed a change, and for the congregation because a new minister might bring those into the church that would not come while he was there. On motion of Mr. Graham seconded by Mr. Crawford the resignation was accepted by the congregation with considerable regret and the meeting adjourned.

Balmoral.

The ladies of Balmoral will hold an Ice Cream and Raspberry Social at the residence of G. D. Bryan quarter mile north of Balmoral School house on Wednesday evening, Aug. 21st, in aid of Church purposes. Tea served from six to eight o'clock. A choice program is being prepared. Admission 25 and 15 cents.

Forged Cheques.

Quite an excitement has been created in town over the fact that some party as yet unknown has been forging cheques in the name of Henry Reinhold. M. P. McCall, of McPherson & McCall, cashed a $28 cheque Saturday and it was returned to him Monday. N. Murphy cashed a $20 cheque and R. H. Brown cashed a $15 cheque which were all found to be forgeries. The authorities are taking active steps to apprehend the guilty party and it is thought that it will not be long before he will be arrested as there appears to be evidence already against a party.

Since writing the above, we learn that the Gaetz-Cornett Drug Store cashed a cheque for $15 for the same party, and that he was arrested yesterday by Chief Robins at Blackfalds, and is now behind the bars in the Red Deer police station. His name is Rhodehaver.

Farewell Dinner.

A few of the old boys gave a dinner to Mr. Geo. Wilkins at the Alberta Hotel on Saturday evening.

Mr. Wilkins was about to join the ranks of the happy Benedicts and speeches from all present expressed the regret of his leaving town and hoped that he would soon return to our midst.

Mr. Wilkins in his nicely worded speech said that although there was a sucker born every minute, it took him 40 years to die. Among those present were Capt. Cottingham, W. P. Holliwell, W. Wright, E. B. Hill, R. W. Griev, Dr. Plaxton, W. Patterson, F. E. Wilkins, A. T. Stephenson, A. P. Botsford.

Explosion at Medicine Hat.

Medicine Hat, Aug. 12.—The whole city was violently shaken this morning by an explosion of powder which was stored in the old Earl residence just outside the corporation limits. The powder was being transferred to the new magazine at Dunmore Junction, and it is thought that one of the men engaged in the work may have been smoking and carelessly dropped a match. George Austin and George Brown were in the building at the time. The former's clothing caught fire and he was horribly burned before it could be put out. His recovery is not expected. Brown escaped almost unhurt. A team of horses standing near had their hair singed completely off, and they were badly burned in spots. Nothing is left of the house.

Penhold.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Fleming left for the coast last week.

J. Walker has moved his butcher shop to the old McKenzie Store.

Chas. Wilson left for a holiday on Monday last. He will take in Vancouver and B. C. Points.

Stewart Bros. have had a great run on their Ideal Giant mowers. They have sold about thirty this summer.

About two weeks of good Alberta weather and we shall have great fall wheat crops. A good many more are seeding this year.

About two hundred yards south of depot another gang of men are busily engaged upon building the new elevator, so watch Penhold ship grain next year.

Our town presents a scene of unusual activity. About twelve teams are grading for a new siding which will be about half a mile in length. This, when finished will fill a long south of the town, the team took fright and ran straight for town. In turning off the grading near Wilson Bros store both occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Pennington sustained rather serious injuries being badly shaken, the little girl escaped with a bruised face.

An accident which might have had a fatal ending occurred here last Wednesday when Mrs. Pennington and her little girl were driving to town. It appears that after crossing the track south of the town, the team took fright and ran straight for town. In turning off the grading near Wilson Bros store both occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Pennington sustained rather serious injuries being badly shaken, the little girl escaped with a bruised face.

A Little Fine of $29,240,000

Judge Kenis Landis, a few days ago, in the United States district court, fined the Standard Oil Company, Indiana, $29,240,000 for violation of the law against accepting rebate from railroads. The fine is the largest assessed against any individual or any corporation in the history of American jurisprudence. The case will be carried to the highest courts by the defendant company. The penalty imposed under the law, and it was announced at the end of a long session in which the methods and practice of the Standard Oil Company were mercilessly scored. The judge, in fact, declared in his opinion that the officials of the Standard Oil Company who were responsible for the practice by which the corporation was found guilty, were nothing less than thieves. The court held that the railroads have no more right to make a rebate for a shipper than a board of assessors would have to make a special assessment of any party. The court expressed regret that the law failed to provide more serious punishment than a fine, but insisted that the penalty should be the limit. It is expected that the case will be heard during the January term of the United States Court of appeals.

THE PREMIER'S DUTY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has recently come home to receive the welcome of the people of Quebec. Among all classes and creeds he commands the respect and sympathy of the people of Canada.

Endowed with eloquence of speech and distinction of bearing, moderation of temper, reserve, and patience, he is a picturesque and impressive figure, and on all ceremonial occasions, at home or elsewhere, Canadians know and rejoice in the knowledge that he represents the country with distinction and dignity.

Thus trusted and honored, it is fair to ask that he shall be jealous for the country's reputation, and shall deserve the affection which he inspires and the confidence which he receives.

No one knows better than Sir Wilfrid Laurier that long occupancy of office breeds abuses and tends to entrench the manner politicians in authority.

Men claim advancement by right of long service, or even of doubtful service.

Obligations have been created which it is hard to set aside.

The choice grows more restricted, the demands more important.

The mind of the ruler becomes affected by adulation.

The party comes ever closer. Public opinion seems more remote.

Criticism excites derision and contempt.

Country becomes subservient to party.

A continuous process of deterioration goes on, the heads lose their power of initiative, the mercenary elements in parliament and in the constituencies become more impudent and more aggressive, and the rulers ever more subject to these reactionary and mischievous influences.

This is the situation which confronts Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and it is important that he should handle it strongly and courageously.

It is of vital import to the character of the nation that we should make public life highly honorable, and a seat in parliament the greatest distinction to which a Canadian can aspire.

It is not necessary that politics should be mean and dirty.

They will not be so if we recognize the supreme obligation to decency and integrity which rests upon all men who undertake public service, and put in the chief places "able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating unjust gain."

NATURALIZATION MADE DIFFICULT.

Under this head the Stettler Independent makes some very pertinent remarks. It says that under existing conditions all that is required of the foreigner who is desirous of becoming a loyal subject of our Sovereign and a Canadian, is to attest to that effect before a local official and pay a nominal sum of $2. But under the new regulations which are to go into effect at once residents of this locality would need to go to Wetaskiwin as that is the local centre for this district, which would mean with loss of time railway and hotel expenses to say nothing of the inconvenience a matter of about $50 to each individual. It is not wonderful that day by day a strong feeling of animosity is being engendered in the hearts of Westerners against our Federal Legislators. Some will say that in this instance they are forced to this action by the Imperial authorities which in a measure may be true but on the other hand it must be born in mind that the Federal Government are not there to passively submit to any proposal of the Imperial authorities; they have a duty to perform to each and every citizen of the Dominion, and apparently instead of putting up a fight with the home Government against this injustice they are prepared to foist it upon us without first ascertaining the feelings of the people in this connection. With all due credit to the Federal Government for their Immigration policy and the vast gains to the Dominion as a result to their aggressiveness in that particular it certainly does not redound to their credit to permit such an injustice without strenuous opposition. Their policy if persisted in will do more harm to the country than their Immigration scheme will do good.

This regulation affects the West in particular, vitally, for it is to the West that the tide of immigration has set in from Europe and the United States. It may be that the Federal Government knowing that a general election is to take place in the near future and feeling secure of their position among Canadians, take advantage of this Imperial enactment to make Naturalization difficult, not daring to risk the vote of the unbiased populace that have streamed into the West during the past three years.

The Toronto Globe, having admitted that there is something fishy about the North Atlantic Trading Company business, is talking of for a week. The fisher-craft that loses a mast or a set of sails is not forgotten for six months.

When the Swedish came limping home a wreck or so behind all others, there was a gulf between master and crew. The crew were divided in sentiment, they were always coming to the house in company upon their return. The hours went by, and at last the father arrived home. His face was stern and he went out of her heart as she saw it. She had heard the gossip of the early arrivals, but hoped that the fleet and the town had taken sides, but she believed in her lover.

Laurier's Cabinet of Cynics.

(St. John's News.)

The men whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier gathered about him were confessed cynics. There was not one of them who had a vision. From the very beginning their chief thought has been how best to get the day in. Sir Wilfrid himself, certainly in a glowing moment, could hint the vision for us; but it was a Blair, a Fielding, a Tarte, a Cartwright who sneered at the high thought, the noble prophecy. "Business is business" that was the gospel, almost immediately after the party was seated in power. No one has yet heard the Hon. Mr. Fielding express a generous thought. This is appalling in a young country, where the population is so largely composed of young men from other lands, who desire above all things, the stimulus of magnanimity. The brilliant thing could be uttered by a Cartwright, never the sympathetic thing. Tarte was the frankest cynic of them all for from the beginning he announced his policy of helping his political friends at the expense of the "other fellow."

Sifton might, at one time, have felt a fine glow, but he succumbed to the lure of wealth. The late Mr. Prefontaine would have seemed wonderfully fit, if his presence would have hindered disinterestedness in public life.

In Shallow Waters.

By KIRK MCGEE.

Copyright, 1907, by Mary McGeon.

When it became known throughout the town and the fishing fleet that after one more trip to the Banks Dave Miller, who had for three years been more of the Swedish under the captaincy of Josh Baker, would take out the Mary and Jane and become a captain himself, there was not a begrudging word or a selfish thought.

Dave was a young man, a popular one. He was a good sailor and a lucky fisherman. It was known that he was in love and was already engaged to Captain Baker's daughter Mary, and the talk was that they were to be married. It had been for Captain Baker to choose a son-in-law from the fifty single men in the fishing fleet, he would have held out his hand to Dave in preference. They had fought the seals of the sea together for three years, and they had come to know each other as handmen can never know one another.

Out on the Banks that day it was equally weather. The air was cold and raw, and the sea heaved up and gurgled and growled as if demanding victims. Every craft nooked watching that day and there were more closely watched than the Swedish. There came a moment, however, when the captain was below the deck, and Dave saw him and the mate had his eyes on a tramp steamer sheering her way through the fleet, and that very moment it was when the Swedish came within the swiftness of a cannon ball, and the Swedish was thrown on her beam ends.

It was inevitable that confusion should follow. With her masts flat on the water and her sails bulging out, the boat could not right to an even keel, and it was the mate himself who seized an ax from its bucket and cut away the shrouds, letting the strain take them overboard. It was the only thing to do to save the schooner, and he periled his life in the doing of it. That was for naught, however. No man is so jealous of his reputation as a fisherman, and his crew knew that there must be accidents at sea, no matter what the vigilance, but for all that an accident is a smirch and a blot on his reputation.

So it was that the news ran through the fleet of sixty sail almost as if by telegraph, that the Swedish had been dismasted in a squall which had spared all others. There must have been carelessness of course. Captain Baker himself knew, and his crew knew, that there must be accidents at sea, no matter what the vigilance, but for all that an accident is a smirch and a blot on his reputation. "I'll never enter my door again!" said the father as he stood and looked at the girl.

"But it couldn't have been his fault, and we are to be married," she pleaded.

"It should have been the squall. He shouldn't have lost his head afterward and cut away the masts. He comes here and says he was told again and again as other craft came in, but her lover did not make his appearance at the cottage on the hill. It was only when the Swedish came limping into port that Dave took his old captain's arm, and they both walked through the streets, until they came upon Mary waiting at the door. Then the stern old father joined their hands together and whispered:

"Take her, Dave, and give me a corner of the fireplace for the few years I've got to live. I'm done with the fleet."

The Lyre Bird.
The largest and handsomest of all the song birds is the lyre bird. Its home is in Australia, where its song is heard morning and evening. It is heard often in winter than in summer. The chief beauty of the lyre bird is in the tail-feathers, which are white, elegant and in the form of an ancient lyre. While singing the lyre bird spreads its tail over its head like a parasol, and droops its wings to the ground. This bird is not only a fine songster, but can imitate the songs of all birds. One living near a wood sawyer's hut once imitated the sound of the filing of saws. The crowing of cocks, the cackling of hens, the barking of dogs and the howling of cats are within its range. Its own song is also different from that of other birds, being a louder and fuller tone.

Leoprosy.
Leoprosy is an exclusively human disease. It is not inoculable to animals. It is never of spontaneous origin, but is invariably derived from the lesions or secretions of a person similarly diseased. Its development in a country previously exempt from the disease may always be traced to its importation in the person of a leper from an infected center. We know nothing definitely of the mode of infection or the channels of entrance through which the bacillus gains access to the organism—whether by direct contact, by inhalation or by intermediaries. Observation proves conclusively that every leper is a possible source of danger to the community, and may come into intimate and prolonged contact.

Cold Comfort.
Miss Gladys, I've no objection to my going skating in the park, but you draw the line at skating rinks. What's the difference?
Frank MacGinnis—Well, my dear, there's no distinction between the two, which is perfectly clear to me—Chicago Tribune.

other craft arrived. Her daily catch was the largest for years. She had filled up and was ready for home and a market, while half the fleet were still whistling for fish.
When came another such day as that on which the accident had happened. There was the same sudden sky out of which equals burst at intervals and without warning came ugly, heaving seas, swelling up as if to pour its weight on deck and sink the craft out of land.
The fleet was heaving and drifting now, and fifty pairs of eyes saw the masts of the Swedish go overboard before the downy of a squall. There was no Dave Miller on board this time, but the thing had happened just the same. On the previous occasion there were deep water and plenty of sea room. On this the fleet had been drifting down into the shallows and was just on the point of tackling.
What every man at once realized was that the crippled Swedish must go to leeward before the end of the sea until she grounded on the sands a mile away. Then the waves would sweep her into the rocks. The Mary and Jane had her home pennant flying and was already on her course. She was loaded deep with her catch and drawing twice as much water as she had.

There was just one way to save the Swedish. Men of the fleet told her today that there was only one man among them who dared take the chance. That man was Captain Dave Miller. There was only a moment of hesitation. Then he raised out a lawyer, had a cutting line bent on, and, settling more sail than he bent on, he dared to under any other circumstances and running a risk that made his crew turn pale and shiver, he headed his craft down toward the shore. He knew the danger of waiting to an inch. He had to look over the side to see the land bulging up. The helplessness, despairing men on the Swedish were waiting and when his plan became clear Captain Baker turned to his mate and said:

"He's the bravest man in the fleet, but he's also a fool! Both craft will go down together!"
The Mary and Jane was stirring up the sand as she came flying down, for a craft of her keel within eighteen fathoms of the bottom will almost cut a groove in the sand or mud. On the bow of this one stood Captain Dave Miller ready to leave the casting line, and Captain Baker went forward to receive it. It was thrown at the right second, and the mate snatched away at once and hauled in frantically. The Mary and Jane must come up into the wind's eye and hold there a moment until the heavier craft be secured.

Good sailors have said that there were forty-nine chances out of fifty that her masts would go during that crucial moment, but the old chances won. The hawser was made fast, the rescuing craft fell off, and a moment later she was towing the wreck into deeper water and safety. It was the top notch of seamanship and level headedness.

They heard about the rescue in the town when the Mary and Jane reached port. Tears came to the waiting Mary Baker's eyes and thankfulness to her heart, but Captain Dave did not appear. The mate was told again and again as other craft came in, but her lover did not make his appearance at the cottage on the hill. It was only when the Swedish came limping into port that Dave took his old captain's arm, and they both walked through the streets, until they came upon Mary waiting at the door. Miss Gladys, I've no objection to my going skating in the park, but you draw the line at skating rinks. What's the difference?
Frank MacGinnis—Well, my dear, there's no distinction between the two, which is perfectly clear to me—Chicago Tribune.

Leoprosy.
Leoprosy is an exclusively human disease. It is not inoculable to animals. It is never of spontaneous origin, but is invariably derived from the lesions or secretions of a person similarly diseased. Its development in a country previously exempt from the disease may always be traced to its importation in the person of a leper from an infected center. We know nothing definitely of the mode of infection or the channels of entrance through which the bacillus gains access to the organism—whether by direct contact, by inhalation or by intermediaries. Observation proves conclusively that every leper is a possible source of danger to the community, and may come into intimate and prolonged contact.

SAYS THIS IS BEST
A leading health journal in answer to the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:
Fruit Extract Dandelion one ounce; Compound S. Latone, one ounce; Compound S. Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.
Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.
A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.
This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound S. Latone and Fruit Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and restores rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

THE WAVE OF CRIME.

New York, Aug. 5.—The arraignment of two Italians in the Lee avenue court, Williamsburg, disclosed another attempt made last night to assault a young woman. The two assailants were nearly lynched by a mob which was finally driven off by the police.

TURKS INVADE PERSIA.

Tehran, Persia, Aug. 5.—The incursions of Turkish troops across the northwest frontier of Persia which for some time had been in abeyance, have again broken out. A serious raid occurred near Urumiah, 6,000 Turkish troops with artillery have crossed the frontier and destroyed the village of Mavanah, Seventy-eight persons, of whom sixty were women and children, mostly Christians, were killed.

BRITAIN TAKES A HAND.

Gibraltar, Aug. 5.—The British armoured cruiser Antrim sailed for Casablanca today to watch over the British interests at that port.

Lumber Men laugh.

The Vancouver World in speaking of the alleged combination of Lumber men in Alberta says:

A despatch to the effect that the government of Alberta will proceed against the Retail Lumber Dealers' association of that province for alleged combination in restraint of trade will be read with interest by coast sawmill men. Attorney General C. W. Cross, of Alberta expressed regret that he must depend on the British Columbia government to make the proceedings fully effective by investigating the methods of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' association of this province.

Coast millmen do not seem to be worrying. Seen by a World man this morning about the despatch from Alberta, Mr. E. H. Heaps, the well known pioneer sawmill lumber manufacturer of this city simply smiled at the matter.

"You are not scared then Mr. Heaps?" asked the reporter.

"No, not a bit," said Mr. Heaps with a broader smile.

"There is nothing in that business at all."

Balloons For Warfare.

On Monday the military steerable balloon 'La Patrie' made a very successful flight over Paris, travelling according to the Daily Mail, at a speed of thirty-one miles an hour with the wind and at eighteen miles an hour against it. A French steerable balloon has been in continual use on the Franco German frontier for nearly two years without any serious mishap and with very satisfactory results. But it is now stated that the French government are about to build a fleet of twenty of these airships; and certainly when a divergible can manoeuvre over Paris with as much precision as 'La Patrie' displayed on Monday it is time for every one in the streets below to realize that it is a perfectly practical instrument of warfare.

AUGUST CANADIAN PICTORIAL.

The midsummer spirit pervades the August Canadian Pictorial. The outdoor life is pictured in all its varying phases. The cover is a scene of young fellows fishing that makes a 'brain fagged' worker sigh for streams that he has heard about. There is too, a page of fishing scenes in the lakes of Northern Ontario, where the black bass run four and five pound. Then there's yachting and camping and wading and diving, and a picture of one of the fashionable seaside resorts of the Lower St. Lawrence. But it is not all play. There are two haymaking scenes taken on an Ontario farm, showing the toilers going out in the morning and building the last load in the evening. There are curious things, such as one of the oldest trees in England, and the skillful way in which Italian cavalry officers ride. Then come the news pictures of which the chief are, those illustrating the national welcome home that Sir Wilfrid Laurier received, and the catastrophe at London, Ontario, in which eight lives were lost. Current events on the other side of the water are not over looked. The distinguished Canadian of the month is the recently knighted Lieut. Governor of Ontario; and in the Women's Department there is a fine picture of Lady Clark, also articles on "The Out Door Life," "Summer Shopping," "Fruit Preserving," as well as timely fashion pictures. Ten cents a copy, one dollar a year. The Pictorial Publishing Co., 142 St. Peter street, Montreal.

ALBERTA.

Prof. E. H. Birch left last Thursday to visit his homestead about 65 miles north of here. He started away on the hurricane deck of a white sayuse and equipped with a flask of ginger ale. His friends are anxious for his safety, and will be obliged to anyone meeting him if they will speak kindly and advise him to get back before snow flies.—Gleichen Call.

Building Airships.

We find the following among the dispatches from Calgary: At Krugerville 30 miles from Stettler off the railroad on the Lacombe branch, K. Merton has completed the construction of a large airship with a balloon 300 feet in length. The trial will take place in a couple of weeks. Burton, who is an American, has worked on the invention for years and all who have seen the ship think it will be a success.

COLD IN ENGLAND.

A London paper, Lloyd's Weekly, complains of the weather in England this summer in the following strain: It is an Englishman's privilege to grumble at his climate, but it is long since he has had such justification for that method of relieving his temper as he has this summer. For it is a summer only in name a bleak season of unsettlement and discontent. It is no consolation to learn that the weather is warmer and more genial in Iceland and within the Arctic circle than it is at favored points on our own shores, and whether our affliction be due to the gigantic sun spot, the comet or the near approach of Mars, it is none the less hard to bear. Tradesmen who deal in summer wares are suffering severely, and those who enter for the public entertainment in seaside and holiday resorts have been deprived of a great part of the revenue on which they rely to carry them through the rest of the year. There is still to come a considerable part of that season which the calendar designates as summer, but unless the sun emerges from his retirement, both holiday makers and those who provide for them will have cause to remember the playtime of 1907 with the most bitter reflection.

Canada's grand old man, Donald Alexander Smith, Lord Strathcona, who is now in Canada once more and for the second time this year, has reached his eighty-seventh birthday. He is still in harness as Canada's High Commissioner in England, a position which he has now held for eleven years, and as chairman of the Hudson's Bay Company besides keeping active control over his own vast private interests and benefices. May he long be able to continue to serve his country as he has done so long and well. The King's physician, we are told, declares that his lordship's splendid health and condition are owing to his model diet, which is said to be for breakfast, porridge, bread and butter and marmalade, and weak tea; for dinner, soup, fish, joint, or fowl; no lunch, no whiskey or tobacco.

The mind of the Calgary Herald is absolutely staggered by the contemplation of the fearful possibilities which will result from Edmonton's new and larger policy of getting peanuts by the carload. The Herald need not be alarmed. We are not cornering the chestnut market.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Saskatchewan Conservatives.

To hold provincial Convention during Mr. Borden's tour

Following the announcement by the Conservative leader, Mr. R. L. Borden, that he will tour the western provinces and be in Saskatchewan from October 12 to 18, the executive officials there are arranging to hold their provincial convention in Regina, during Mr. Borden's visit.

The provincial executive of the Conservative association consists of the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer and the presidents of the various local associations. Communications are being sent out and the executive will arrange at an early date for a representative convention and also Mr. Borden's itinerary in the province where he will hold about six meetings. The first Conservative association for Saskatchewan was organized on Aug. 29, 1905, when it was decided to conduct a non-party campaign in local politics. There has not been a meeting of the association since.

FRANKLIN'S KITE.

The Philosopher's Famous Experiment as Described by Himself.

The famous kite experiment is described by Franklin in a letter dated 1752: "A small cross of light sticks of cedar, the arms so long as to reach to the four corners of a large, thin silk handkerchief when extended. The corners of the handkerchief to the extremities of the cross, so you have the body of a kite, which, being properly accommodated with a tail, loop and string, will rise in the air like those made of paper, but being made of silk is better fitted to bear the wet and wind of a thunder gust without tearing. To the top of the upright stick of the cross is to be fixed a very sharp pointed wire rising a foot or more above the wood. To the end of the wire next the hand is to be tied a silk ribbon, and where the silk and twine join a key may be fastened. This kite is to be raised when a thunder gust appears to be coming on, and the person who holds the string must stand within a door or window or under some cover, so that the silk ribbon may not be wet, and care must be taken that the twine does not touch the frame of the door or window. As soon as the storm comes on, the key is to be touched with the knuckle. The kite will then draw the electric fire from them, and the kite, with all the twine, will be electrified. Carry the string out every way that you can, and when the rain has wet the kite and twine you will find the electric fire run out plentifully from the key on the approach of your knuckle."

OLD TIME THEATERS.

The Way House and Stage Were Lighted in Garret's Time.

It must have often struck people when reading of the performances in the eighteenth century how it was that the lighting was contrived. The power of oil lamps was limited enough. Theaters like Drury Lane and Covent Garden were of enormous size. There were no footlights, at least until about the middle of the eighteenth century, and they were the humble "floats," dim and feeble. Yet there was ample light to observe expression and play of features, so necessary in interpreting the fine old comedies of character. Nowdays the stage is a "house." It is literally bathed and suffused in light. There are no shadows, and yet it might be said the amount of necessary light is no more than there used to be and is not nearly as satisfactory. How was it then?

In the theaters of Garret and earlier days the stage was really lit by four great chandeliers, which hung directly over the heads of the actors from the arch of the proscenium.

"The Pluribus Unum." We are indebted to John Adams for our national motto, "E Pluribus Unum." While he was minister to England John Adams suggested it to Mr. Adams as a good motto to indicate the union of the colonies. It was submitted to congress and adopted by act of congress June 19, 1782. The eagle in its beak bears a ribbon on which is the motto. In the early days of its use the eagle bore also in its talons a shield with thirteen arrows, but when, in 1811, a new seal was made to take the place of the old one, which had become worn, only six arrows were placed in its talons. Whether this change was ordered by law or not is not known. The old Latin motto was in use in England as far back as 1700 on the Gentleman's Magazine.

Roasting Coffee.

In Norway, where superb coffee is made, a bit of butter is added to the beans while they are roasting in the covered chafin used there for that purpose. In France as well a piece of butter the size of a walnut is put with three pounds of the coffee beans, and also a desert-spoonful of powdered sugar. This brings out both flavor and scent and, moreover, gives the slight caramel taste which will be remembered as a pleasing part of French coffee.

The Bloody Meadow.

Tewkesbury, where a famous battle was fought during the war of the roses, is in Gloucestershire at the confluence of the Avon and the Severn and 350 miles from London. The battle was fought on the bloody meadow just outside the modern town, and, according to local tradition, one night in every year on the anniversary of the conflict the spirits of the white and red roses meet and fight the battle over again.—London Academy.

Don't Know It All.

"What do you study at school, my little man?"
"I am studying the history of France, sir."
"Indeed. What can you tell me about Charlemagne?"
"Oh, sir, we have only got as far as Adam and Eve."

Can't Be Coined.

Gaily—Why don't you cheer up? Every body has a little blue devil, but they can't be, but did you ever see anybody that could coin it?

The London Ladies' Field Club discovered that "successful people are usually quite devoid of humor."

Tipping the Cook.

In old times when a nobleman cost more in tips to the servants than a club dinner. Lord Poot, a well named Irish peer, excused himself from dining with the Duke of Devonshire on the ground that he could not afford it. "If you will give me the guinea I have to pay your cook, I will come as often as you choose to ask me"—which was accordingly done. The Duke, however, and not the pluck to stop the tipping practice. Lord Tansie, a general officer in the Austrian service, did what he could. He always attended his guests to the door. When they put their hands into their pockets he said: "No. If you do give it, give it to me, for it was I who paid for your dinner." To Sir Timothy Waino must be given the credit of putting an end to the monstrous practice. After dinner with the Duke of Newcastle he put a crown into the cook's hand. It was rejected. "I do not take silver, sir." "Very good. And I do not give gold." This outrageous rejoinder "caught on," and the day of rials to cooks was over.—St. James' Gazette.

Taking the Initiative.

There is a certain satisfaction in taking the enemy unawares on his own ground. In doing this the advantage is obvious. President Polk evidently took comfort in his method for defeating the hand of his adversary at the chief executive office, and he must have chuckled when he wrote in his diary the bit which is given in James Schrevel's "Historical Briefs": "If a man surrendered his arm to be shaken by one horizontally, by another perpendicularly and by another with a strong grip, he could not fail to suffer severely by it. But if he would shake and not be shaken, grip and not be gripped, taking care always to reverse the hand of his adversary, he would suffer no inconvenience by it. I can generally anticipate a strong grip from a strong man. I take advantage of him by being quicker than he and seizing him by the tips of his fingers. This is stated playfully, but it is all true."

Former Instruments of Torture.

Found in the granaries of the instruments of torture were used for modeling the figure of the young lady of 1831. An English writer of that great age, Mr. John Lubbock, in a schoolroom he preserved it would pass for a refined institution. There would be found stocks for the fingers (the cat-o'-nine-tails and pulley for the neck with weights attached). Fanny Kemble, to whom nature had been by no means unkind, was found wanting in deportment, and she writes that she wore a "back board made of steel, covered with red morocco, which consisted of a piece placed on my back and strapped down to my waist by a belt and secured at the top by two capstools strapped over my shoulders. From the shoulders and under the steel rod or spine with a steel collar, which encircled my throat, fastened behind." The machine proved a failure, and she was not put under the test of a drill sergeant, who did for her all that was required.—"Social England."

Four Bad Snakes.

Snakes are much maligned creatures, although they are, for the most part, of considerable value to man, as they live almost entirely on insects and the small rodents that are injurious to crops. Of all the snakes that inhabit North America there are really only four that are so dangerous to man as the copperhead, the moccasin, the rattlesnake and a little snake of southern Georgia and Florida known as the coral snake. Of course there are a number of different species of the latter (about thirty), but they inhabit different parts of the country and are all to be known from the fact that they "rattle" when approached. All the rest of our snakes are absolutely harmless, and their bite is to be feared less than that of a mosquito.—"Scrap Book."

A Remarkable Church.

A small watering place in Austria named Eichenwald can boast of possessing a most remarkable church. It was first built by an Italian architect at Venice at the expense of Prince Carlos Clary-Adriano, a great admirer of Italian architecture. When it was finished, the church was taken to pieces again and packed in thousands of numbered cases for transportation to Eichenwald. At this place in Austria it was eventually rebuilt and then made over to the inhabitants as a free gift from the prince.

The Seeds Were There.

Farmer Nubbins (shouting across the garden fence to his next door neighbor)—"Hey, there! What are you buying in that hole? Neighbor—Oh, I'm just repainting some of my garden seeds. Nubbins—Garden seeds, oh? Looks to me mighty like one of my hens. Neighbor—That's all right. The seeds are inside.—London Mail.

"How fortunate! How do you account for it?"
"They don't live together."

A Pair of Whys.

Warm again.

Councillor T. A. Gaetz and family have been spending a week at Sylvan Lake.

J. I. Geissinger is away to the Hand Hills looking up stock.

Mrs. James Parris had an afternoon tea on Thursday in honor of the Misses Whitwams of St. Thomas, who have been visiting Mrs. Baird and Miss Beatty.

Are getting good booze.

Result of a special analysis made of liquor sold in new Provinces

Ottawa Aug. 8.—A bulletin issued by the inland revenue department gives the results of an analysis of samples of spirituous liquors from different points in Alberta and Saskatchewan. The immediate cause of the inspection was the reported deaths of some persons who were thought to have been poisoned by the use of adulterated liquors. The samples analyzed were obtained at the public bars and represent the average of whiskey sold in the provinces. No drugs or poisonous additions were found in the liquors. Canada has no legally established standard of liquor strength for alcoholic liquor, but relies on the basis of the British standard. Ten samples from Saskatchewan and three in Alberta were found below 75 degrees proof and five samples in Saskatchewan and five in Alberta were found above 75 degrees. In Saskatchewan 43 per cent of the number of samples examined were found to be equal to or about 75 per cent proof strength and in Alberta 88 per cent.

We spend too much.

SAYS PROMINENT BANKER.

Montreal Aug. 8.—"The people of Canada are spending too much money on cigars and pianos. They are spending too much and not saving enough."

These formed part of the reply made to day by James Elliott, general manager of the Moisons Bank, when asked for an expression of opinion on the present financial stringency. The money market is as tight as a drum at this moment. It is an exceedingly difficult matter to secure money from bankers. Indeed it is almost impossible. There is a strong demand for money from all sources, and not sufficient to go around.

TRENDING DEVELOPMENT. The situation was explained by Mr. Elliott, who said that the development of the country had been going on at such a tremendous rate that it was using up all the available money. "Just consider," Mr. Elliott, "that the population of Canada is being increased each month by the addition of 20,000 people. That is to say 20,000 people are coming to the Dominion each month. Now, these people must be provided for, and the result is that the merchants keep pace with the new demand. The manufacturers are busy too, working at top rate to furnish what is needed in this market. All this requires money so that the supply may be maintained. Consequently there is a big demand for money and the demand is greater than the supply."

GOOD CROPS WILL HELP. "What will relieve the situation? Will a good crop be the crop likely to be good?" "Yes, our reports are such as to indicate that it will be well up to the average."

"What time will that occur?" "Probably about January. Yes if the crop should be good there will be a lessening of the financial tension in the early part of the new year."

Town Council.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Thursday evening last, members all present except Councillor Gaetz, his worship the mayor in the chair.

Henry Reinholt addressed the Council. He said he had been handicapped in not getting his estimates on the work at the end of the month and the men were kicking as pay was delayed. The sewers were not according to the first plans drawn up and it was causing him a good deal of extra expense as he was digging deeper than the agreement called for. He was only asking for his rights and he wanted the council to look into the matter.

The mayor said so far as he could ascertain the sewers were not being dug deeper than plans called for. The levels had been taken and found to be correct and he thought Mr. Reinholt was mistaken in stating he was going deeper than specifications called for. However, he said, the Council would again look carefully into the matter.

Councillor Stephenson remarked that it might be possible Mr. Reinholt was correct and he thought every effort should be made to give him full justice.

DEPUTATION FROM BOARD OF TRADE

Messrs. Crawford, Sanson and J. Wallace, a deputation from the Board of Trade, waited on the Council with regard to a grant to the Board for advertising purposes.

Mr. Crawford said it was necessary to bring in settlers to occupy our lands and as there was such a small portion of land occupied in the vicinity of Red Deer it was necessary for us to secure settlers for what available land we had. The Board of Trade had considered a system of advertising in parts of the United States and Canada where settlers could be persuaded to come to this district. The Board had decided to advertise in the Family Herald and Weekly Star for winter months and also in the periodical called the Canada West, a journal used by the provincial governments and the three great railways. They also intended getting out a folder for general circulation setting out the advantages of the district. They asked for a grant of $350 from the Council for this purpose.

The mayor desired to know what lands were vacant other than the Saskatchewan Land Company's property.

Mr. Crawford said he was not aware of much, but the Coy's land referred to totalled up about 17000 acres which was tied up by litigation.

Mr. Wallace gave an instance of what people were saying. A general agent of an insurance company told him that Red Deer was not known outside of Alberta. Saskatchewan and the big cities were advertising but we were unknown. It was a great necessity to advertise our country as much as possible.

Mr. Sanson said there were people going into places and buying land not nearly so valuable as our lands, because those places were advertising. He felt by judicious advertising our lands could be sold at the prices asked without difficulty. It was merely because our district was unknown that settlers failed to come here.

The mayor thanked the deputation and congratulated them on the way they had put their case. He said the Council would give their request the most careful consideration.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Provincial Health officer and Sec. of the Provincial Board of Health wrote the Council that he had received a communication from J. B. Covell last October to the proposed plan of disposal of sewerage as adopted by the town Council of Red Deer on the ground that it is depreciating the value of his property. The matter was brought before the Provincial Board of Health and the secretary stated that plans and specifications of proposed works are required to be placed before the board of health with so that the matter can be discussed and investigated with out loss of time.

The secretary treasurer replied stating there were no plans and specifications available and as the work on sewers was nearly completed they would be available before new plans could be procured. The suggestion was made to the engineer of the Health Board to look over the system. He forthwith pointed out that the Provincial Board of Health intimated early in the season that it would not be in a position to deal with the matter this year. That the system had to be completed. The health of the citizens demanded consideration far beyond interests of an individual and that the representatives of the municipality had no desire to inflict injury on anyone nor did they think any real injury would be done.

A. W. G. Allan, secretary wanted the Council to appoint two representatives to the Hospital Board.

E. C. Hughes, Calgary, an artist taking orders for enlarging photos, desired to know if pedlar license would apply in his case. C. K. Wright was his agent in town. The Council decided he came under the by-law and that he would have to pay a license.

W. L. Walsh, K. C., Calgary, wrote asking for an extension of time for opinion as the question referred to him regarding the Western General Electric Co. agreement was an important one and he desired to be sure of his ground before reporting to the Council.

A. Mitchell, provincial weed inspector again wrote the Council on the question of weeds. A notice of appeal from the decision of the Court of revision was read from Pidgeon & Wallace the lots west of Court House property were assessed for $4000 which was too high. J. L. Crawford was mentioned as their solicitor.

Councillor Pidgeon brought up the report of the Committee on License and Police. The Committee did not find it possible to get a 24 hour service and combine the Fire Hall and weigh scales work but to do these and give a 24 hour service a third man would be required, and it is the desire of the Committee that the councilors express themselves as to the number of men required. The report was adopted.

Some discussion took place on the question of patrol duty. Councillor Tait contended the most important hours were from midnight to four o'clock. Fires generally occurred at this time and a policeman would be out service. Councillor Stephenson thought the night was the important time for a policeman. We might cut a few hairs in the morning better than the night service.

Councillors Pidgeon and McKee contended if we wanted an all night service we would have to have three men, as two men could not do it and look after the fire hall and weigh scales.

Moved by Councillor Botterill seconded by Councillor Tallman that the matter of appointing weigh scale clerk be postponed indefinitely. Lost on the vote of the mayor.

Councillor Pidgeon moved, seconded by Councillor McKee that the police duties be arranged to patrol town up to one o'clock a. m. to take effect Sept. 1907.

Councillor Botterill thought this motion was overriding a by-law appointing police patrol duty.

The mayor thought not, but that the police committee could make any recommendation they saw fit. The motion was lost.

Councillor Botterill moved, seconded by Councillor Tallman, that the town patrol all night, and that the Police committee arrange the hours for the patrol. Lost.

Councillor Stephenson brought up the report of the Finance committee. Council in committee on the report.

Councillor Stephenson moved, seconded by Councillor Pidgeon, that the first part of the report of the Executive and Finance Committee pertaining to the rate of assessment be considered at a special meeting to be called by the mayor. Carried.

The following accounts were passed and ordered to be paid:

Public Works: Staples & Co., $734.19; Ilsey Bros., $10.95; U. W. Kidner, $10.05; T. A. Gaetz, $1.25; Staples & Co., $80.96; Feed & Van Slyke, $3.90.

Sewerage: T. A. Gaetz, $32.00.

And that $25 be paid to the Colonial Investment Co. loan on fire hall.

The portion of the Finance committee's report dealing with accounts was passed.

Moved by Councillor Botterill and seconded by Councillor Stephenson that the amount of $350 be placed in the estimates to be granted to the Red Deer Board of Trade to defray expenses of advertising the town and district for the year 1907. Carried.

On motion of Councillor Botterill, Councillors Tallman and Gaetz were appointed Town Council's representatives on the Hospital Board.

On motion of Councillor Stephenson the Councilors were appointed delegates to the Municipal Convention at Medicine Hat, Sept. 16th and 17th. Council adjourned.

ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

The Board of Trade held a meeting on Tuesday evening last to discuss plans for a more thorough campaign of advertising our Red Deer district than heretofore. There was a fair attendance of members among them being Messrs. Stone, Bannerman, Smith, Botterill, E. Michener, McKee, R. L. Gaetz, Galbraith, Jos. Wallace, Judge Biggs, Crawford, Botsford, Bawlinheimer, Welliver, Carswell, Collinson, Tallman, Sanson, Slade, President Oimetto and secretary Munro. The communications were of a general routine nature, and the time of the meeting was taken up with discussing the best way of advertising our district. Addresses were given by Messrs. R. L. Gaetz, Joseph Wallace, Bawlinheimer, ex mayor Michener, Judge Biggs, Welliver, Smith, Botterill, Crawford, Sanson, with reference to the merits of different publications and the kind of settlers best adapted to this country. The general tenor of the addresses were for a vigorous campaign in making Red Deer district better known in the middle States where the land and conditions are similar to ours, and at the same time make a strong effort to secure our share of settlers coming in from the Western States.

D. M. Sanson brought in a resolution, seconded by Jos. Wallace, that the Council be asked to make a grant of $350 to the Board for advertising in the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star, in Canada West, the paper of the Western Canadian Immigration Association and for printing 10,000 copies of the proposed six page pamphlet.

The resolution carried, Messrs. Crawford and Smith bringing forward an amendment to leave out the names of the publications in which the advertising was to be done.

Messrs. Sanson, Crawford and Wallace were appointed a committee to wait on the Council with regard to the grant.

We are again obliged to ask for your co-operation. It's easily given, and costs nothing. It's simply this: You have ordered a Binder from us; you know you will require that Binder, then why not call for same as soon as possible, in order that we may help you set it up. We cannot be all over the district at once. There is no need to wait until your crop is ripe, for we will demonstrate the running of our Binders in the heaviest green grain you can produce. So why not take delivery of your Binder the first day you are unable to go on the hay field; it will not cost you one dollar more, but it will give us a chance to set it up for you before the fall rush. Just figure this out, and you will admit that it's only reasonable that we cannot set up the large number of Binders sold by us in the last week preceding harvest.

Thanking you in anticipation of your hearty co-operation in this matter,
